TO NEW LOW LEVELS Banking Groups Will Aid

Stocks, Spokesman Avers

New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—A spokesman for New York's leading bankers, following a meeting late today in the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., said that important investment groups were preparing to enter the market immediately as large buyers of the best grade stocks. The bankers attending the conference were William C. Poiter, president of the Guaranty Trust; Albert H. Wiggin, president of the Chase National Bank; several Morgan partners, including Thomas Lamont and George Whitney; George F. Baker, k., of the First National Bank; Charles E. Mitcheil, chairman of the National City Bank, and Seward Prosser, president of the Bankers Trust Co.

The meeting began shortly before 5 o'clock and was over before 6. The same group met twice last Thursday in an effort to stem the hurricane of selling which broke over the stock market at that time. No formal statement was issued after today's conference. The bank-hurricane of selling which broke over the stock market at that time. No formal statement was issued after today's conference. The bankers, interviewed as they were leaving the Morgan offices, expressed an optimistic viewpoint. They said they had heard nothing to substantiate reports that certain stock exchange houses were in difficulties. They added that it was possible they would not be the first to hear of such cases if they existed.

It was stated that the purpose of all bankers present at the meeting was to cooperate in providing a steadying influence. One spokesman specifically contradicted the frequent statement that the banks would try to prevent a decline. Their only object, it was emphasized, was to assure that a decline should be orderly and not perpendicular.

"In any kind of a decline, whether in commodities or stocks," said one of the conferees, "if the public becomes panicky, the situation is not good. As far as we can determine the market is now behaving in an orderly fashion.

It was widely foreseen that many of these would find that they had to liquidate their holdings further."

He emphasized the fact that there was little of the hysteria present in today's market of the kind that made Thursday's debacle mem-

After reading in the newspapers an account of the finding Saturday night of a baby girl lying beside the railroad tracks on North Fayette street, a Mrs. Schaeffer, of 1405 Frince street, and Mrs. Wells, of 1407 Frince street, and Mrs. Wells, of 1407 Frince street, went to police headquarters yesterday and reported that late Saturday afternoon a young woman came to each of them in turn and told them she had been driving a long distance: that her car was broken down, and that she could not well cars for her baby while the car was being repaired, and asked them to take care of the infant over night, offering them a dollar for doing so. Both women declined to take the baby, and the woman left. Mrs. Schaeffer and Mrs. Wells paid a visit to the hospital last night and positively identified the baby as the one they had seen Saturday.

The police have a fairly good description of the woman who abandoned the baby. Since some of the clothing of the child bears the label of a Washington shop, they are of the opinion that the mother lives either in Washington or nearby Virginia or Maryland.

colonel's motives but the colonel is listened to in the State, nevertheless. And he now has a lot of people with him. There is no doubt of that. Aside from the regular Republican voters, a lot of conscientious opposition to the present order of things has developed around the coalition movement. That this opposition is sincere is attested by the that it still exists in the absence of Bishop Cannon.

The coalition leaders say that they are satisfied with the bishop's withdrawal. Had he remained in the campaign, they say, it would have centered around him. Without him, they insist that the opposition, for whatever strength it develops, is a sincere voice against the present regime and uninfluenced by religious prejudice or prohibition.

Prejudice Still a Factor.

Prejudice Still a Factor.

Prejudice Still a Factor.

This is not altogether true. Cannon's withdrawal has taken the religious, fire out of the campaign, but the coalition speakers are still shouting "Raskobism and Du Pontism," the most attention that the latter has ever received politically. Even Prof. Brown is doing this and his State manager, Frank Lyon makes no bones about his anti-Catholicism.

But it is a fact that with the bishop's withdrawal the issue is not turning wholly on religion. It may be and quite probably is true that this subject originally sent many voters upon their headlong opposition to the Democratic party, but once embarked they are now determined not to turn back and at present the religious issue does not enter into their political consciousness.

The question arises then, of course, as to what will become of this opposition should the coalition cause lose in the present campaign, as the indications are that it will do by a close margin. Will it stick together to harrass the Democratic regime for-

This it is not believed they will do, and yet there is the serious question as to whether the opposition will hold

Ninth Swinging to Democrats.

Ninth Swinging to Democrats.

The Republican leaders insist that despite the friction in their camp and their uncertainty about the unhappy alliance with the anti-Smith Democrats, that all Republicans will vote for Brown, the coalition candidate. Yet there is the fact that the Democrats are claiming the Ninth District and the coalition is making no serious dispute of it.

It is a fact, indeed, that if the coalition should win it will do so without the Ninth. Now it so happens that the Ninth. Now it so happens that the Ninth is the closest district in the State normally. Years before the anti-Smith Democrat developed there were strong rival Democratic and Republican parties in the Ninth. It was the Ninth, of course, that maintained C. Bascom Slemp in the House.

One would think, of course, that with such a balance as has been maintained in the Ninth heretofore, that just a few anti-Smith Democrats would tilt the scales to the Republicans. Such apparently will not be the case. It is believed the Democrats will carry the Ninth.

This is simply cited to show how inharmonious is the whole thing, the lack of unity in the first place on the part of the Republicans and the wary eye with which the anti-Smith Democrats and the Republicans are watching each other in the second.

Col. Anderson said in part:

campaign by appeals to the prejudice of the people.

"The first was the organized effort under the leadership of the governor of the State to invade the constitutional rights of one of its citizens and to question Dr. Brown as to how he voted in June, 1928, on the short hallot amendment to the constitution. The constitution provides that the secrecy of the ballot shall be reaintained. If the secrecy of the ballot shall be reaintained. If the secrecy of the ballot shall be reaintained. Smith and the efforts of the State officers to force the people by every known method of pressure to support Gov. Smith, convinced him that a serious mistake had been made in putting additional power into the hands of the leaders of the Democratic ring. "How he may have voted last year is absolutely immaterial. Like thousands of other Virginians, the campaign of last year opened his eyes to the danger of the concentration of power into the hands of the concentration of power into the hands of the concentration of power into the hands of the political ring in this State."

Col. Anderson touched on several other points in the campaign. He said:

Post Accident Insurance

He was collecting fares on the running board of a street car ... had done it hundreds of times before and felt perfectly safe . . . suddenly a crash as an automobile struck the car. He was thrown to the street and injured. Fortunately he was a subscriber to The Washington Post and had invested $1.50 in a Post accident policy.

The Washington Post, through this accident policy, paid him $25-not a very great sum, but one commensurate with the circumstances and the attendant expense of the accident. If the entire expense had been borne by him he would have been compelled to make sacrifices to pay the bill.

Post Policies Protect

AT HOME, AT WORK, AT PLAY

Other records on file at the offices of The Post show payments made for injuries received in tripping over a rug in the insured's own home, for falling on stairs, cranking automobiles, being struck by vehicles on the street, for industrial accidents, and hundreds of similar misfortunes. Wherever the accident occurs it is covered in the provisions of the exclusive policy that can only be obtained through The Washington Post. Such a policy with a face value of $1,000 costs but $1.50 to Post subscribers and its value increases $100 per year for 5 years.

A representative of The Post will call at your home and explain every feature of these compre-hensive policies and you will realize that under no other circumstance can you obtain such complete and practical protection at so little cost. Welcome him with the understanding that he is acting entirely in your interest. He will call upon your specific request made to The Post Circulation Department, phone National 4205. Both present and new subscribers and each member of their families between the ages of 15 and 70 may obtain one of these policies without physical examination.

$1.00 value for 50c

FREE OFFER: To induce still more people to try Ribbon Dental Cream . . . the scientific dentifrice with the foaming, penetrating action . . . we make this remarkable offer. Only Colgate . . . world's largest maker of tooth paste ... could finance such a proposition. The resources and guarantee of this hundred-million-dollar firm are behind this deal. There is no "catch" to this offer. Colgate simply wants you to try Ribbon Dental Cream. To repay you for doing this, we offer you a genuine new Colgate Toothbrush . . . as described . . . actual value 50 cents . . . ABSOLUTELY FREE!

The brush

This tooth brush - the newest, most ad- Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream is the vanced type known to dental science - was designed by the Colgate Department of Dental Education . . . a group of dentists who have studied the needs of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children.

Examine this brush. Study its shape, its size, its bristles. It is made by skilled American workers . . . under the most sanitary conditions . . . from selected, imported snowwhite bristles of finest quality. Every brush is carefully inspected. Handles are of lovely transparent material, in 5 exquisite shades of green, purple, amber. Bristles are held in a firm vise-like grip that never loosens.

This brush is identical in quality, in size, in durability to nationally advertised brushes that sell regularly in the better stores at 50c. Now yours free with this unique offer. The dentifrice world's largest-selling tooth paste. More people use it . . . and more dentists recommend it . . . than any other dentifrice.

The reason for this is simply that Colgate's cleans teeth better. Colgate's contains the world's best cleansing agent - a penetrating foam that cleanses where the toothbrush cannot reach.

Your dentist will te'l you that decay doesn't start on the smooth outer surfaces of the teeth . . . but in the tiny crevices where food particles and mucin collect.

No tooth brush can reach these hard-toclean places. They must be cleansed by the dentifrice. Hence the real test of a tooth paste is its ability to get down into these crevices and cleanse them thoroughly. A scientific test recently proved that Colgate's has greater penetrating power than any of the leading tooth pastes on the market today - the secret of Colgate's superior cleansing power.

The foam of Colgate's carries a fine chalk powder . . . a polishing material prescribed by dentists . . . which polishes the enamel safely, brilliantly.

> The Colgate method of scientific tooth brushing

After years of study and thousands of experiments, the Colgate Method of scientifically cleansing the teeth has been developed by the Colgate Dept. of Dental Education.

This Method is most effective when Ribbon Dental Cream is brushed on with the Colgate Brush. For the springy, serrated bristles, set at exactly the right distance, act in a way that applies the full, concentrated cleansing power of the famous Colgate foam . deep down into the "hard-to-clean" places. Only thus can you be sure of cleaning these difficult spots where decay lurks.

Start today to use the Colgate Method of Scientific Tooth Brushing . . . and note the difference in your teeth ten days hence.

This offer is strictly limited. The supply of brushes has been rigidly allotted to the stores which are co-operating in this great offer. They will not last long ... once people read this announcement. So, act NOW! It may be months or even years before we can repeat this amazing proposition.

Senator Sackett (Republican), of Kentucky, chairman of the District without the tain making the local investigation, made another unsuccessful attempt to call his four colleagues together for a meeting year today when their large single-motored them were afraid to leave the Senate ommittee hat is fight was on. Ordinarily, Senate committees hold their meetings and their hearings at 10 o'clock, and finish up by noon, when the Senate meets at 10 instead of at noon. Consequently, senators who are deeply interested in the tariff, and almost all of them are, are loaths to attend committee meetings lest they miss something that concerns them in the tariff debate.

However, this does not mean that the Sackett subcommittee will not hold meetings in the near future; what it does mean is that there is little prospect right now for any, thorough hearings, any calling of witnesses, such as had been hoped for by those who wanted local affairs given a good airing.

Senator Sackett said yesterday that he would make another attempt to get his subcommittee together this morning. If he succeeds, he and the other four senators—Jones, Vandenberg, Blease and Copeland—will gather behind closed doors and decide what they are going to do in the future.

"It seems to me that the people here have lost confidence in the heads of the police department.

But what is even worse, the rank and file among the policemen seem to have lost confidence. It is time for action."

FRANCE AND ITALY.

With a wave of the hand Paris and London correspondents coolly assure the public that France and Italy will have no difficulty in reaching an understanding that will insure the success involved in permitting a few selected worldof the proposed naval conference in revolutionists, Communists, anarchists or London. These superficial observers entirely overlook the factors that are driving France and Italy into opposing camps, with steadily increasing probability of deadly friction rather than cult question of all-the question of not worth worrying about. imiting national defenses.

Throughout the Balkan countries there is preparation against the time who face the Italians across the Adriatic, are alive to the probability of war. They are spending more than they forces, fully expecting that Premier Mussolini will strike whenever he believes his opportunity has come. The Slavs rely upon France, and by all the to their aid. If anything is certain in transatlantic politics it is certain that France will never permit Italy to expand on European soil if war can prevent it. Yet Italy is ambitious to expand and is constantly tempted to strike back at the provocative Jugoslavs who nourish hopes of humbling Italy and recovering what they regard as their own soil.

The easy assurance is given that France and Italy will agree upon a hypothetical naval parity whereby France will remain stronger on the sea while granting that Italy is entitled to build up a navy equal to that of France. Such an agreement would destroy Mussolini in the twinkling of an eye. He is incapable of falsifying the meaning and aim of fascism by making an Mussolini has done and said goes contrary to the supposition that he will subordinate Italy's sea freedom to French pretensions. He will concur with France in rejecting the British proposal to abolish submarines, but he will not concede to France a single submarine more than he claims for Italy.

No reason exists for impelling France and Italy to reach a naval agreement. Neither of these countries is charmed by the British Labor government. British labor's attitude is abhorrent to Italian fascism, which prides itself upon having strangled the reptile of bolshevism that crawled through Italy. France has, suffered several rebuffs from the British Labor government and is anything but anxious to assist Ramsay MacDonald to hold his place. The source and tone of the invitation to join a naval conference were an affront to both France and Italy. They shrewdly refuse to be placed in a position where they might be charged with making a conference impossible, but they have no responsibility for its success. They will frustrate any proposal that would bring prestige to Ramsay MacDonald at their expense.

THE TURKISH REPUBLIC.

Six years ago today the Turkish republic came into existence. During its infancy it has been under the guiding hand of its founder, one of the most dynamic figures of modern times, whose military, constructive and diplomatic genius has accomplished prodigious feat. Mustapha Kemal's achieveents entitle him to a place alongside George Washington, and while antique wisdom ut ters the warning, "Count no man happy until he is dead." no adverse turn of fortune can the state: that is to say, for opposition to deprive Mustapha Kemal of the glory that the Fascist regime. moralized when the man and the opportunity met and set fire to the spirit of the country. Mustapha Kemal Pasha could not have made a free country of a race of slaves. He had dependable material upon which to work, and in all his astounding advances the Turkish people have kept pace with him. From the moment when he turned the tide of retreat and began the campaign that ended with the crushing defeat of Greece and the downfall of Lloyd George he has had the support of the liberty-loving Turks. The world has accepted the new situation almost as a matter of course, but history will recognize in the emergence of the Turkish republic a splendid drama, not excelled in an cient or modern times for its heroic episodes and its triumph of right over wrong.

It is not to the credit of the United States that it has failed to establish full and cordial relations with the republic that has burst into bloom in Anatolia. The treaty providing for fellowship between the two republics hangs fire in the Senate, while bigotry and misrepresentation persist in an attempt to stifle the natural and desirable association of two free nations. The treaty should be promptly ratified, as an expression of the sympathy which Americans feel toward all peoples who shake off oppression and make themselves free.

A REVERSAL OF POLICY.

The Coolidge-Hughes-Kellogg policy of denying admission into the United States of self-confessed red agitators has been reversed by the action of Secretary Stimson in pernitting Count and Countess Karolyi to visit this country. No restrictions are to be placed upon their activities and they are to be free to promote intrigue, foment trouble or continue their preachings in favor of world revolution and against all capitalistic forms of government, including that of the United States.

Opinions may differ as to whether any serious danger to American institutions is other political pests to join the ranks of the 'borers from within" who have not progressed beyond the stage of making themselves public nuisances in their attempts to poison the body politic. A few more or less may not matter much in a practical sense, and financiers backed by actual money should be mutual agreement upon the most diffi- there are many who contend that they are

But this does not alter the fact that the permission now granted to Count and Countess Karolyi will necessarily be construed as the initiation of a new policy of when Italy and France will grapple in letting the bars down to others of their ilk, a struggle over Jugoslavia. The Slavs, and a repudiation of the policy which Calvin Coolidge, Charles Evans Hughes and Frank B. Kellogg pursued after thorough investigation of the so-called Karolyi case.

The Countess Karolyi came to the United can afford in training and arming their | States in August, 1924, and the count applied for a visa the following January. Mr Hughes' investigation at that time convinced him that the count would be undesirable in view of his past record and his efforts to deliver Hungary over to the world-revolutionforce of position and treatics they are ists. But as the countess was ill Mr. Hughes warranted in expecting France to come humanely permitted the count to join her on condition that the refrain from preaching his revolutionary doctrine and that he leave American shores as soon as his wife was able to travel.

But Mr. Hughes soon discovered that his leniency was to be exploited, and when the countess later applied for a visa to return it was refused. Persistent efforts during last year to persuade the Coolidge regime to relax the rule met with a firm but courteous refusal. On September 1 of last year the count arrived in New York on a Spanish vesse bound for Spain. He was permitted to spend three days ashore and again the leniency of the American officials was used against them. An application for a visa by the count on October 4 of last year was summarily denied by Mr. Kellogg.

The refusal of the United States Government to allow the Karolys to visit America has been made the stock-in-trade of Count Karolyi in pursuance of his red propaganda. He has made an issue of it for months and agreement acknowledging the su- has boasted that he would compel the United premacy of France over Italy. Presumably the count will fully exploit his victory at the expense of the Coolidge-Kelogg policy. The way is open to him to visit Washington. He will lecture and grant interviews and predict the dawn of a new day. From his standpoint he will be a political and social success in attracting his own brand of followers about him.

MUSSOLINI'S ITALY.

During the last seven years Premier Mussolini has molded Italy according to his own tastes and is well pleased with his work In celebration of the seventh anniversary of he Fascists' march on Rome he stood before housands of enthusiastic countrymen in the Piazza Venezia and with a self-satisfied air known only to himself reviewed his achieve-"These seven years have not been lived in vain," he said. "I can say that the Fascist regime is today perfect in its instituions and its men."

The Duce informed his countrymen in no uncertain terms that "Italy is at last as ! wish it." This indicates that Italy has attained the status of "an army of citizens and soldiers ready for the work of peace or war; industrious, silent and disciplined." These statements are particularly interesting because of what they reveal regarding the Italian dictatorship. In the seven years that he Black Shirts have been at the helm Italy has undergone a sweeping evolution. mistakable progress has been made, but The indomitable premier now informs the world that that progress has been toward fashioning Italy according to his

Evidence of this progress may be seen on every hand. The legislature is so constituted that active opposition to the Fascist regime in that body is impossible. Italy has revised her criminal code to administer more severe punishment on those guilty of crimes against tablishes the independence of his country, relinquished a number of cabinet posts whose and the equality of his-people before the law; authority had been previously vested in him-The Turkish people were unconsciously self. Presumably he considers the nation so recutive power exclusively. Italy appears to be enthusiastic about this progress, but the world outside is still keptical. Mussolini boasts that the Fascists still have the courage to "plunge the lead of their muskets into the backs of the enemies of Italy," and apparently they are depending upon that courage for future "progress." It may be assumed that world history, which has a remarkable sameness in dealing with empires built to the ideals of single individuals, is not popular in the sunny peninsula at present.

YESTERDAY'S MARKET.

Yesterday's stock market went a long way toward dispelling the spirit of optimism and onfidence that may have been created as a result of the many recent statements, from official and private quarters, to the effect that the shakedown was completed and that the trend now would be toward normalcy. There can, however, be no doubt that business is inherently sound and that the country, fundamentally, is in good economic shape.

Yesterday's declines started with the opening gong. They gained momentum until in the early afternoon strong banking support appeared. For awhile the market rallied, but when the closing gong had rung, more than 9,000,000 shares had passed hands and scores. of issues had been driven to low levels. If the memory of last Thursday's collapse had not been fresh in mind, vesterday's market would have seemed equally catastrophic.

It remains to be seen whether or not yes terday's affair was merely an echo of last week's break. If so, it is probably well that t has been got out of the way. The promise of New York bankers to enter the exchange in support of inherently sound issues is a reassuring move. Uneasiness might well get he best of sound judgment if the present endencies in the market were allowed to run loose. It is evident that a strong hand is needed. Sound values should govern, but there are times when public judgment does not take soundness into consideration. The fact that those who should know have said that conditions were sound and did not warrant the present slump proved insufficient The oninion of the Nation's foremost an argument which even the most nervous ndividuals can understand.

A BRITISH VIEWPOINT

By GEOFFREY DRAGE, In the London Times.

Naval parity is part of and depends on policy in which the United States is to join with us. In this regard it is well to recollect he words written by President Roosevelt at the height of his power:

"It would be well nigh impossible, if it were not undesirable, for this country (the United States) to engage with, another to arry out any policy save one which had become part of the inherited tradition of the country like the Monroe Doctrine .. Not merely could I, for instance, only make such an engagement for four years, but I would have to reckon with a possible overthrow in Congress, with the temper of the people, with many different conditions.'

The text of the official joint statement of Mr. Hoover and Mr. MacDonald states that Both our governments resolve to accept . . positive obligation to direct our national policy" in accordance with the pledge of the Kellogg pact. Those, however, who have read the debates in the Senate on the Kellogg pact will remember the extreme nervousness displayed when it came to obligations, All the speakers wished to be sure they were not committed to any obligation whatever. But that is precisely the one thing needful if England is to reduce her navy so that she can no longer protect her commerce by which she lives. What is required is a definite hard and fast guarantee that the United States will join in the protection of our trade and abstain from trading with our enemies. As a distinguished admiral has said, nothing short of this is of any use to us.

The reason why parity is desired and the cause of the trouble between us at Geneva which are sub judice) may be fairly summed up in the cant and misleading phrase "the freedom of the seas." The seas are, of course, perfectly free in peace time. In time of war it is suggested that when two powers are at war the belligerents should give up at sea the right they always exercise on land to prevent as far as possible supplies being procured from neutral nowers. This freedom, as a recent United States historian has pointed out, the United States when at war has consistently violated, while she has vigorously asserted it when neutral.

For this trouble there is an obvious remed; when wars come, as, of course, they will if human nature remains the same, and that is to distinguish between normal and abnormal trade and to institute a system of rationing and certification with an organization and control like that of the Netherlands Overseas Trust in the great war. Would the United States assent to this? If so, it would be a step in the right direction. Failing such a step we must bear in mind the concluding words of Admiral Mahan in an article on Anglo-American reunion:

"It is a fair deduction from analogy that two contending armies might as well agree to respect each other's communications as two belligerent states to guarantee immunity to hostile commerce."

In conclusion, it is submitted that the above elementary but unpalatable facts have go to be faced and that no remedy will be found in armchair resolutions passed at a conference by a majority of neutral states who are not prepared to take any share in carrying them out. We have only to recollect The Hague Convention before the war and the fact that not one of the signatories, includ ing the principal neutral nation (the United States) fised even the moral influence of a protest against the repeated violations of its terms (Cp. Sir Cecil Spring-Rice Letters, vol. II, pp. 240-4).

We, at any rate, are responsible under Providence for the peace and prosperity of a quarter of the human race, for which the fleet is the principal guarantee. For that reason, if for no other, we are entitled to examine the proposals outlined in the Times of September 17 and October 11 and 12 with

Roumania's Little King Soon Tired of Schoolmates Who Hit Back By ROBERT QUILLEN

S OME time ago a worried mother appealed to me for some charm that would break her small son of the correspondible habit of that would break her small son of the reprehensible habit of lying. The little fellow was a model of virtue in all other particulars, so the letter affirmed, but he would lie to escape criticism or impress and audience or merely to exercise his imagination and neither threat nor punishment, prayer nor pleading availed to keep him in paths of righteousness.

I could not share the mother's anxiety, for I see no evidence of evil in the "stories" told by very small children.

A lie is the natural weapon of the weak. It is an evidence of fear. Like the deceptive and protective coloration of jungle creatures, it serves as a defense against the strong. Small children lie without consciousness of evil, just as they take what they desire without guilt of theft. Love of truth is a virtue that must be acquired. It is a part of man's code of honor, rooted in necessity and developed through the about over-production in agriculture, ages as a shield against hurts. The child must learn it, as the race did. And it can not value truth for its own sake until it develops sufficient intelligence to, comprehend and accept the adult code of ethics. It may be added, parenthetically, that some children never develop intelligence in such degree and go through life as untruthful as they are stupid. The dumb rarely hesitate to lie; the more intelligent men are the more they revere the truth. It is a measure of intellect.

When a boy is old enough to "understand right and wrong" and yet persists in lying when the truth threatens unpleasantness or to gain an advantage he may be cured of his fault by example-not by example of virtue, but by example of plain, unvarnished lying. One example is worth a score of precepts, whether in the teaching of manners or religion, courage or righteousness. And it is especially valuable in teaching the folly of wrong. If the boy lies to you call him from his play with the assurance that ice cream and cake await him. When outraged disappointment brings him to the verge of tears explain calmly that you merely followed his example in telling untruth.

Lie to him cruelly and treacherously until he hates lies and sees at last how much more pleasant life will be if each of you can accept the other's word at full value. Lying, like other sins against humanity, is enjoyable and profitable only so long as the offender can trust others not to offend him.

When he is lied to by those to whom he lies, so that nothing he hears is certaintly dependable and he never can know what to expect he understands that truth is a necessary virtue and a lie the chief of

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: In the past it has been customary for any nation signing an arbitration treaty to exclude "vital interests" and 'national honor" from the operation of such treaty. Since Mr. Robinson, a member of the Roosevelt clan, resigned from the post of Assistant Secretary of the Navy, sometimes regarded as hereditary in the Roosevelt, family, he and Mrs. Robinson have severed their connection with Washington to spend most of their time at their home in Herkimer, N. Y. However, they already have a tie to bind them to the Capital in that Mrs. Blaise de Sibour, who was Miss Betsy Mary Robinson, lives here. And pre-sumably Miss Helen Robinson also will become a Washingtonian by adoption, since Mr. Hinckley is associated with F. B. Keech

Dewey, to Mr. Frederick Alger, which was solemnized in great state, with the Fresident of the Polish Republic among the guests. Mr. Dewey is financial adviser to the Polish government. Miss Dewey and Miss Robinson were close friends and had been presented the same season.

One wonders if young Mrs. Alger's first visit home since her marriage may not be arranged in time to take part in her chum's wedding. No date for this has yet been set.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson arrived in Washington yesterday from Herkimer, N. Y., and will be at the Mayflower through tomorrow. Their daughter had been visiting here for some time previously, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Jordan and their niece, Miss Virginia Peters.

Fur Cape Coat

What a versatile little fashion it is. Early in the day we wear it without its cape (although youth often just reverses it so that the cape matches the coat fabric)in the afternoon we like the luxurious look of the fur cape-and in the evening we rob it, and tie the cape about our evening wrap.

You have probably guessed the fur is lapin—we like it so this season—the fabric, a rich brown suede texture.

visitors, where there is much talking. Reply—This child is probably nervous and untrained and would not be normal if there were no radios and no other sources of excess noise. Now that most mothers know how to keep their babies physically healthy, the problem of keeping them mentally and emotionally healthy is coming to the fore. Within ten years this, rather than feeding and other questions of physical health, will be the subject of general discussion.

One reason for nervousness in children is exposure to noise. Adults keep in touch with the world by reading, observation, conversation and other forms of social contact, as well as by the special senses of sight, hearing. The game was Contract, South (the desier) bid one No Trump. West passed, North bid two Clubs, I passed, and South bid three No Trumps.

West realized that gouth held both the Ace and King of Diamonds, so he shifted to his Heart suit South held up on the first round of Hearts, but had to take the second. Queen Marie was on a 10,000-mile tour of the United States and Canada in 1926, when she was called back to Roumania by the illness of King Perdinand I. who died shortly after. PERMAPS the most significant touch in the collection of the Maison Poiret is the medieval note given the princess silhouette. The princess line naturally suggests the medieval costume, and in the manner in which Poiret has expressed this idea we cannot but admire the loveliness of the result.

Tucks and frills have been used a great deal to break up the severity of line, but the especially effective note is the use of the high collar at times.

One lovely black velvet model has this high collar with turn-down points and a gold-embroidered band laced through it, this band being repeated at the waist and cuffs. The sleeves are distinctly medieval and collar.

A medieval model in grey chiffon has a tiny embroidered blue band along the rounded neck-line and on the tight sleeves from elbow to wrist. A sunning evening gown with the same line is of net beaded in tiny who buy a house for her same line is of net beaded in tiny.

A stunning evening gown with the same line is of net beaded in tiny yellow beads, with a tiny band of colored beads circling the decolletage and a gem ornament of caputon jade in the center of the back. Another beaded band encircles the tight sleeves above the elbow. Yellow velvet lines the lame (iah-may) evening coat, which accompanies this.

One stunning evening gown of black lace and chiffon had a rose of scarlet velvet, fifteen inches across, crushed at the side front. Many of them have large jewels on fancy chains embroidered directly on the gown, adding to the medieval effect.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"THE BORROWING BOY FRIEND."

A BOUT four dozen girls want to relate their experiences with that product of our modern age—the parasite male who borrows money from girls and women. Because these letters are so vivid with truth, we are going to publish them in the twofold hope of shaming the parasites and warning those girls who are having their first experience with the borrowing boy friend.

Belle married one of these insects, and this is four years later:

"When he first borrowed money from me I had only known him two months. I was terribly shocked, for I was raised in a small town where every one would think a man a criminal to ask money from a girl. He saw how I took it and told me he would not think of borrowing only he expected to marry me as soon as he was 'on his feet."

"This was absolutely the first word he had ever said on the subject of marriage, and I should have known it was just craftiness. But I believed him. He immediately started, making love, and kept it up—also the borrowing. # NEW YORK SEASON OPENS WITH OPERA

Bori, in "Manon Lascaut" Is Attraction as Society Dons Gayest Garb.

LONG SKIRTS ARE WORN

New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.) .- In the ropolitan Opera House, whose sootdown upon the encroachments of a new society, with its jazz and moto cars and night clubs, the social season was officially opened in New York tonight. Officially, too, it was matter of secondary importance. It is society's gala night. Society in satins and velvets, jewels and furs that make even the most gorgeous costumes of bygone days worn by the prima donna look almost commonplace, sweeps up the grand staircase, there to see and be seen.

Lucrezia Bori Heard.

So once again tonight, while Lu-crezia Bori sang the lovely wistful arias of "Manon Lescaut," the golden horseshoe softly glowed, unable to subdue even in a darkened house its arias of "Manon Lescaut," the goiden horseshoe softly glowed, unable to subdue even in a darkened house its regal magnificence, and as the curtain lowered and the lights came on, all eyes turned upward and swept around that dazzling curve.

Society came late, Society, ever since there was a Metropolitan Opera House, always has arrived late on the opening night. So all through the first act—while outside, at the old Thirty-ninth street entrance, where the carriages used to roll up, flashing motorcars—there was a subdued rustle of silken fabrics through the house. Nobody minded, It was all a part of the thrill of opening night at the Metropolitan, still the most gorgeous even in the New World outside of formal receptions in Washington,

One thing that made tonight's One thing that made tonight's opening even more exciting than usual was the return of long skirts and waistlines. Fashionable New York has not taken particularly kindly to long skirts for street wear. In the crowds one sees along Fifth avenue there is no great change. Skirts may be an inch or two longer, but that's all. Brock Pemberton Presents "Seven Year Leve" a new comedy by John D. Hagsart. Siage by Antomette Perry and Mr. Pemberton. But for evening wear women have welcomed back the long, sweeping lines that add inches to stature and volumes to elegance and grace. And so once again tonight the old-fashioned crimson carpets at the Metropolitan felt the gracious cares of satins and velvets.

ined that this was an opening night in the days before the war.

Mme. Bori, always a favorite with society audiences, and Benlamino Gigli sang the leading roles in the Italian "Manon" of Puccini, and Tullo Serafin was the conductor. It was Mme. Bori's first appearance in an opening night performance since 1912, when she sang in this same opera at her American debut.

Two members of the company made their debuts tonight—Miss Eleanor La Mance, of Jacksonville, Fia., a mezzo-soprano, who has been singing mezzo-soprano, who has been singing in Italy, and Alfredo Gandolfi, an Italian barytone.

The plot, if something so airy can be so termed, is all about a woman who has been happily married for seven years and decides that she ought to be seduced to vary the deadly monotony of an undisturbed life. Having made up her mind on this score she exercises her sex's prerogative of changing it. In fact she changes it several times and the final curtain falls with the audience in the mood to believe that she would probably change it again if she had time.

But there is something boresome But there is something boresome in the idea that a woman and a man each intent on the conquest of the other, could travel from New York to the Mediterranean together without ever deciding whether to make a go of it or not. The tempo of the idea belongs to the age of hoopskirts rather than to the ultra speedy time in which it is set. There are distracting side issues, of course, all based on the same general theory that the grass is greener on the other side of the road. But no one actually crosses the road; perhaps because this piece is a comedy, or maybe it is a fairy story.

This rejuctance about road cross-

this piece is a comedy, or maybe it is a fairy story.

This reluctance about road crossing is all the more peculiar by the contrast it offers to the sparkling lines and epigrams with which the play abounds. There are really too many of them, but the quality is high. As is customary these days there is a great deal of frankness in the conversation but most of it is so cleverly done that it is not offensive.

the conversation but most of it is so cleverly done that it is not offensive.

Catherine Willard is convincing as the dissatisfied wife who thinks she is a vampire because her reasoning is overbalanced by imagination. Carlotta Irwin is delicious in the role of the flapper who analyzes the antics of those around her by defining love as "lots of vital energy." Edwin Nicander does well by the character of the amiable ex-philanderer who amuses himself by trying to steer at least one marriage past the rocks of feminine imagination. Then there are Audrey Ridgwell, the wife who wants a divorce because her husband's ears twitch; and George Brent, who fills the part which must be termed that of the villain for want of some other classification. All handle themselves well, and so does Theresa M. Conover who, for the nonce, is the rich and aging wellow who likes them young and fresh but doesn't get them.

If the proper professor with the wand aforementioned is found it may turn out all right; if not, it will probably be just another premiere gone wrong in Washington.

Square. London. There, in the morning room of the old place built 200 years before, he deives into the papers and private belongings of an ancestor—another Peter Standish who, naturally, resembles the American. In truth, the first Peter Standish had gone over to the colonies, had fought with George Washington, and, after the revolution, had come a-courting to London town. As the records proved, he married a Kate Pettigrew; but, looking over these aged documents, the modern Peter made out a sister. Helen, who won his love—and he went back, as the modern Peter in the ancient Peter's costume, to make a declaration of that love; traveling all the time as the suitor for Kate's hand—traveling, too, as a man who knows the modern system of electric lighting, the modern methods of motive power, and all else of this inventive age, but mingling amongst strange people as a native of the eighteenth century.

Muddling? Of course its muddling: that is, as here set forth; but up there on the stage of the Belasco where living flesh and blood actors have at it, "Berkeley Square" becomes as clear as the crystal, as enchanting as the dawn. A glance at the aforegoing synopsis of scenes will give some inking of the passages made. In fancy, from one century to another—from the eightent to the twentieth. Not in a dream, but out of the actual present into the dead past walks the central character and when he there meets his real love, and kisses her, this ladies and gentlemen, becomes the acme, not to say the quintessence of love. When a lad of 1928 kisses a lass of the late 1870's that is enough to excite attention.

Complaint has been made that most reviewers of "Berkeley Square" have somewhat muddled the story—in the retelling; and it is easily understood how that is so since the author himself must have paused, many a time, and wondered just how he might clear the fog. Certainly the actors and actresses, playing dead folks who are yet alley, or live folks who are really dead and have been buried these generations—must be keenly attuned; but none more so than

Important Costumes From Pasternak's

—are luxuriously furred and fashioned of fine materials. Pasternak, 1219 Connecticut avenue, has at this time a wonderful assemblage of beautiful models for women who demand the conservative expression of the ultra-mode.

A costume which some one should have for concerts and luncheons and teas has a cost in cloth in blackberry shade lined in a delicate color called wild orchid, which also fashions the gown underneath. The collar is tinted fox.

Soft materials, rich furs and handsome satin blouses characterize the ensembles shown. Hats to match may be selected from the millinery salon.

Trips Around The World

are being planned at the C. C. Drake Travel Bureau.

People are making reservations now for sailings next spring and earlier, too, of course. A party is now forming for March 15, going to Europe by the southern route, making a motor tour through northern Africa, and then doing Europe in the spring time. This trip, of course, starts earlier.

Another party made up of young people from all over the East is to sail from New York on April 25. This will follow practically the same route as the other. Both trips are to be conducted by two most attractive people. Drop into the C. C. Drake Travel Bureau in the Willard Hotel and find out more about it.

A Cunning House

On Twentieth Street has been opened for your inspection. Schuyler & Louisbery, 1409 Twentieth street northwest, invite you to an exhibition of American and provincial rooms, which you must not miss seeing.

which you must not miss seeing.

You will recall instantly that Miss Schuyler and Mrs. Lounsbery were for some time with Elsie Cobb Wilson, and you may have heard that among the important houses they have done recently is Mrs. Medill McCormick's new hoze in Georgetown.

I always say that not every one has the talent for assembling early American and provincial furnishings, with a happy and harmonious result. To me, every room in this exhibition is so utterly perfect that words can not describe to you how charming the rooms are!

There is a little drawing room at the left of the entrance hall which is a combination of provincial and more sophisticated antiques, done so deftly, that the effect is enchanting. On this same floor are the very businessilke offices of this pair of "interior architects"—nice light rooms where you may study colors and plans and look at lamp shades to your heart's content.

Do see the American bedroom on the second floor in the rear, with red glazed calico curtains with pinked frills, and two chair seats repeating the same color. This house is the nicest thing that has been done in a long time, and you must see it at once. The telephone number is Decatur 4637.

This has always been the favorite meeting place for every one who enjoys beautiful surroundings and excellent culsine, but since the recent culsine, but since the recent acquisition of Gabriel Linassier dining or lunching at the Willard Hotel has a net meaning.

This famous chef has pleased the appetite of kings and princes. He brings to Washington all the genius and artistry which have delighted the King of Spain, the King of Fortugal, the Prince of Wales, when he has been cher at the Ritz Hotel in Paris, the Ritz in London, and the Carlton in London.

Linassier was a pupil of the great master chef, Escoffer, and the secrets he knows about truffles and mushrooms and the preparation of toothsome delicacles of all kinds, are too intricate to be revealed.

Since he himself does not use a cook book, but evolves each dish as a musician would improvise a theme, it is not likely that you can ever learn how he does it. That does not eliminate you from enjoying the menus he creates, and it is your privilege to drop in the Willard any time and try for yourself, the delicious food from the hand of Linassier.

Further Reductions At Nealon & Co.

—have been inaugurated as the time draws near, when this shop for children's wear will be closed permanently. The little girls' costs are practically alligone, but the two or three remaining will prove great finds for some one. Little sweaters, hat, socks and frocks of sil ages have been marked down once more, for definite clearance. Infants' novelties have been added to the reduced prices, too. These include dolls and little odds and ends which will be sold for practically nothing. Nealon & Co. is in the Barr Building.

Have You Seen The Window

at Schwartz, 1325 Connecticut avenue? This is one of the prettlest display windows you will see, and quite worth making a special trip for, especially when it is lighted at night.

The values at $29.75 are quite unusual, and in such excellent stylings, that you should really take advantage of this opportunity to add a lovely model to your wardrobe. Procks in all modish colors are featured, but you will also find some marvelous black crepes, which are so fashionable now. Princess lines, with flared skirts and touches of white make these most intriguing. white make these most intriguing Schwartz, 1325 Connecticut avenue.

—their ready-to-wear frocks, beginning right now. It seems they have had such a demand for frocks made to order that they have decided to put in a dressmaking staff and sell out the models on hand, just as rapidly as possible.

This is a good idea, as there are not so many places where you can have things made to your order for a moderate sum. This is a season, when it is perfectly possible for you to incorporate your own ideas into the established mode, and there is no better way than to take your materials and palterns to a reliable dressmaker.

BANKERS STEP ASIDE AND STOCKS CRASH

Selling Is More Orderly but Sinking Is Most Acute Ever Recorded.

STREET IN DEEP GLOOM

New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Powerful financial interests stepped aside today and let the stock market drop like a plummet, as a huge mass of wreckage from last week's crash was dumped overboard, drawing after it wreckage from last week's crash was dumped overboard, drawing after it much panicky selling and instigating another "bear" rampage.

Although operations were markedly more orderly than they were during Thursday's close approach to a 13,000-000-share day, the sinking spell was the most acute ever experienced in modern financial history, as scores of leading shares tumbled about 10 to 60 points. Sales totaled 9.212,800 shares, the sect nd largest turnover on record, and leading stock averages and indicgs indicated the sharpest drop ever experienced in a single day, more than wiping out the raily from Thursday's low levels, and carrying the general level of prices to a new low for the year.

This further collapse of prices, coming after two sessions of comparative stability of prices, seeming to attest widespread reports of the formation of a powerful banking pool to support the market, cast wall street once more into deepest gloom.

Bulls Face Huge Losses.

Bulls Face Huge Losses.

Would-be speculators who had entered the market for the first time late last week, after waiting for months to buy stocks at the bottom, were faced with huge lo-es, and traders who had the fortitude to hold on through last week, saw their losses yawn even wider. Thousands succembed to panic and rushed to sell. Many observers saw in the renewed break a withdrawal of support, while the impaired margin accounts unearthed by commission house forces, digging over Sunday-through the confusion left from last week, were disposed of. These disclosures are understood to have been startlingly large, and it is believed important interests seeking to stabilize the market did not care to assume the burden of taking over this stock.

Heads of Wall street's largest, banks again met at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. late in the afternoon. While no official statement was issued, it was learned that they felt that the situation after today's drop warranted is more cheerful outlook, that the cleaning out the remaining weakly held stock had been largely completed, and that while there may be further selling tomorrow, relief appeared to be in sight.

Purther Action Hinted. It was intimated that further measures would be taken to stabilize the market. It was acknowledged that today's decline had been more drastic than had been expected.

U. S. Steel was taken in huge blocks than had been expected.

U. S. Steel was taken in huge blocks at slightly advancing prices for a time in the afternoon by Richard Whitney, generally regarded in Wall street as a Morgan floor broker, but he soon withdrew his support, and the stock dropped with a crash, and closed at 186, off 17½.

The action of the market found no basis in the day's business news. Further railroad September net operating income statements brought the total for the first 44 roads to report up to 8-10 of 1 per cent of that of the like roads for September, 1928, considerably more favorable than the early reports had indicated. The week-end trade reviews disclosed lair to good business conditions, although some apprehension is felt over the prospects for holiday trade, particularly in luxury articles, as result of the collapse in stocks. Call money again hed at 5 per cent, and short ferm time money was available as low as 6%.

All Support Ineffective.

All Support Ineffective.

All Support Ineffective.

No effective support appeared in the market, even up to the close. Investment trusts were said to be standing by awaiting a definite turn before buying stocks. The only evidence of finstitutional buying came from the head of the Sun Life Insurance Co., who said his concern was investing in stocks. Many important shares at the close were selling at around half their prices of a few weeks ago, at less than ten times current earnings, and in some instances, at less than book value.

Among the sharpest losses are Air Reduction and Otis Elevator, off about 60 each: Allied Chemical and Columbian Carbon, off 50; General Electric, off 47½; Underwood Elliott, off 45; Eastman Kodak, U. S. Industricts Columbian Carbon, off 80; General Blectric, off 47½; Underwood Elliott, off 45; Eastman Kodak, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Auburn Auto, off 38 to 40; American Telephone. Johns Manville and Westinghouse Electric, off about 28 to 34; American Can. American and Foreign Power, Columbia Gas, New York Central, Consolidated Gas, National Cash Register and Radio, off 17½ to 22, the lastnamed touching a new low at 40½ compared to the year's high of 114½; Baltimore & Ohio, Gold Dust, United Aircraft. Bethlehem Steel. United Corp. Paramount Famous, Sears Roctotte, Montgomery Ward, National Dairy Products, and Anaconda, off about 9 to 16.

Commodities Are Firm.

Commodities Are Firm.

Commodities Are Firm.

The commodity markets failed to break with stock markets, grains actually showing considerable lirmness. Wheat sold up from 2½ to 3 cents on the Farm Board Loan offer and continued export demand. Corn mounted a cent or so on a decrease in the visible supply, and less favorable weather. Cotton, however, eased, closing 60 to 75 cents a bale lower, after firmness early in the session.

Foreign exchanges were firm, reflecting further withdrawals of foreign balances. Sterling Cables again touched $4.88, and the Freigh franc, German mark and Dutch guilder reached new highs for the year.

IRREGULARITY SEEN AMONG BOND ISSUES Secondary Obligations Sold to Obtain Funds for Stock Margins. U. S. CERTIFICATES HIGH New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Sharp irregularity marked the course of bond prices in today's market. The enormous liquidation of stocks led to the selling of some obligations of secon-dary grade to provide funds for weakdary grade to provide funds for weakened margin accounts, and only bonds of prime investment merit were able to make progress. Even this group was rather spotty. Four issues of United States Treasury certificates sold at new highs for the year, reflecting the character of the demand in view of the shaky condition of confidence. Liberty Bonds were steady. The Associated Press averages showed that first grade rails had acored a slight advance, but that secondary rails, utilities and industrials had declined, although the recessions were small. Volume of trading ran well below that of last Thursday, when the movement of prices was similar to today's. Bond Dealers, Confident. Bond Dealers, Confident. With the crash in stock values, bond dealers are confident that the young, but healthy, bull market in bonds will be rapidly expanded. Ploating supplies of the best issues are limited, while the demand is increasing. The most striking feature of the session was the drastic slump of the convertibles. As quoted values of the shares melted away, the fixed-return obligations exchangeable for stocks tumbled precipitately and the close found American Telephon; 4½s off 34½ points to 150. International Telephone 4½s crashed 29 points to 133, Atchison 4½s showed a net loss of 8, Public Service of New Jersey 4½s declined 17½, and most of the other active issues from 3 to 7 points. Among the low coupon rails, there were nominal gains in Rock Island 4½s, Great Northern 4½s, Illinois Central Collateral 4s, Chicago & Alton) 3s, New York Central general 3½s, Pennsylvania general 4½s, and Union Pacific 4½s. Larger gains developed in some of the Big Four issues. Bond Dealers, Confident. New York Ralls Strong. New York Ralls Strong. There was early strength in New York State Rallways first 4½s and the 6½s on the announcement that Associated Gas & Electric Co. had offered holders of the bonds the right to deposit the securities at 10 per cent above the market price in lieu of cash on subscription to the new Associated Gas Allotment certificates, but the bonds thereafter reacted 2 points each to new lows. Essier prices showed in a large number of industrials, including American Smelting 5s, American Sugar 6s, Armour 4½s and 5½s. Chile Copper 5s, International Cement 5s, Fisk Rubber 8s (off 10), Marion Steam Shovel 8s, North American Cement 6½s, and Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s. Utilities Are Steady. The utilities were fairly steady, but such issues as American Telephone 5s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, Detroit Edison 5s, New England Telephone 5s and North American Edison 5½s declined. New York Telephone 5s and 4½s, Laclede Gas 5½s, Duquesne Light 4½s and Consolidated Gas of New York 5½s worked higher. The foreign group was soft. Bramilian and San Paulo State issues declined sharply in reflection of the confee situation, French Government 7½s and 7s and the German Republic 7s were among the few foreign bonds showing strength. # Secretary Mellon said some months ago--"The Time has Come to Buy Bonds"

After an orgy of speculation, there are factors at work which should lead to a return to the sanity of careful saving and wise conservative investment.

The percentage of those who win in speculation is very small—and of those who lose—very large.

Let us again direct attention to the fact that the man or woman who builds conservatively builds wisely. If you have money to invest, select the best and most expe-

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS By CHARLES W. STORM

Canadian Pacific Railroad.

A. L.—Kindly advise in regard to the following: I note that Canadian Pacific is quoted at about 220. Do you think it good business to buy it in preference to Norfolk & Western? The Canadian Pacific seems to be doing the largest business. What do you think of VaPeel Service Co.? The headquarters is at Alexandria, Va

Answer—The Canadian Pacific is one of the prenier issues in the railroad field and is one of the strongest. From a financial standpoint it, has a good dividend record and is considered autiable for investment holding. The Norfolk & Western Railroad has also shown a remarkable increase in earnings in the last year and is considered by authorities to be one of the best railroad accurities. Either issue should answer your purpose. No information is available on the service company you mention.

Capital Traction Co.

Capital Traction Co.

J. K.—I have 20 shares of Armour "A" bought at 24 and 10 shares of Symington "A" bought at 21. Shall I sell or hold? I also have 30 shares of Capital Traction bought at 104. Shall I hold this also?

Answer—This column can not give advice as to whether or not it would be most advantageous for one to either sell or hold any security, as it never attempts to forecast future market movements. Armour "A" and Symington "A." according to present earnings reports, must be classed as radical speculations and not suitable for conservative investment holding.

Net income of the Capital Traction Co. has been on the down grade for the past several years, and for the year ended December 31, 1925, failed to fully cover current dividends. However, these have been paid to date. Any stock on which dividends are not being fully carned, even though the same be paid, must be looked upon as speculative for the reason that, unless net income improves as to more than meet dividend requirements, the maintenance of dividend payments is in jeopardy.

Am thinking of buying 10 shares of each and 40 shares of Niagara Hudson-Power, Have about $4,000 in a building loan. Would you think it wise to take it, out of the building loan and buy the stocks you advise?

Answer—Standard Brands is generally well regarded as a speculative investment, while Niagara Hudson Power, because of its only recent or-investment, while Niagara Hudson Power, because of its only recent organization, is looked upon as highly speculative. Allis Chalmers has just been placed upon a $2 annual dividend basis, and because of this has greater attraction than heretofore. General Motors, while still favorably rearried in speculative circles is not general Motors, while still favorably regarded in speculative circles, is not so highly thought of from an investment viewpoint as was formerly the case. Earnings for the year 1929 are expected to show a falling off from those of 1928. Dividends of $4.50 a share are paid annually on United Gas & Improvement in quarterly installments of $1.12½ each. The stock is well regarded in conservative investment circles. The writer always advocates diversification in one's security holdings and, on that account, would deem it advisable if you were to take out at least $2.000 from the building and loan association and reinvest in some good, sound listed securities, giving preference to seasoned dividend-paying preference to seasoned dividend dividend dividend dividend dividend dividend dividend divi

American Telegraph & Cable.

American Telegraph & Cable.

L. F. D.—I read your column every day with interest. Kindly tell me what you think of American Telegraph & Cable stock, selling about $23 a share. I own 100 shares of Pennroad stock, selling at about the same price. Would you advise selling the latter and büying the American Telegraph & Cable?

Answer—Inasmuch as the lease from the Western Union Telegraph Co. under which the American Telegraph & Cable Co. operates expires in May, 1932, and that the company, therefore, is essentially a liquidating proposition, would not advise selling of your Pennroad stock for the express purpose of abuying American Telegraph & Cable. Pennroad is a holding company or, in other words, in investment trust, closely affiliated with the Psunsylvania Railroad, and is therefore favored with capable management and strong sponsorship. However, it is the policy of this column not to comment on investment trusts. trusts, not because investment trusts are held in disfavor, but because their future success is so largely depend-Concerning Three Companies. Concerning Three Companies.

L. J.—Please inform me through your column when a dividend was declared on Kane Stores. Also please give me some information about Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co. and National Distillers.

Answer—It was reported that discores of Kane Stores declared an initial stock dividend of 10 per cent fayable August 15, 1929 While resint earnings statements have shown itilafactory increases, it is too early a the history of the company to lige the estock other than a specular live the stock other than a specula-live rating. Chicago Pneumatic Tool so, is a leading producer of pneu-matic tools in this country and oil so. Is a leading producer of pneumatic tools in this country and oil ingines of the Diesel type. Earnings for 1929 are estimated at about $4.50 per share on the common stock. National Distillers Products Corporation: In absence of definite knowledge as to future of company or as to price received for recent sales formation of an accurate opinion on prospects of either preferred or common stock is difficult. Thus, would not consider the issue for conservative investment.

Investment Trusts.

R. W.—Will you please give me four opinion on investment trusts?

Answer—While conceding that there may be and probably are many good and substantial investment trusts, this column makes it an invariable practice not to-comment on them as a plass, for the reason that their future success is so largely dependent upon management.

Studebaker Common.

T. E. H.—I have ten shares of Studebaker common, bought at 79. and ask whether in view of the recent shump in prices it is a good stock to hed for investment, or would you edvise getting out and charging the loss up to poor judgmeht?

Answer — Studebaker's earnings trend, which was downward through 1925 to 1927, turned upward in 1928, and 1929 returns are expected to be in the neighborhood of 88 per share including the corporation's share in clinding the corporation's share in clinding the corporation's share in clinding the company is now paying at annually in cash dividends, besides the 1 per cent quarterly stock dividends for 1929, the stock has considerable attraction on a yield basis.

Sharks' Teeth

When a shark in the waters off Mexico gets into an argument with his fellow shark, he doesn't have to worry about losing a tooth in his opponent's spine during the altercation, for should this occur, a new one will grow in the course of a few weeks from the six reserve rows of teeth he has in his upper and lower jaws.

As human beings, we are not as well equipped as the shark for reserve teeth, but we can always be so prepared financially. The sagacious investor always has a sound reserve of safe securities to take care of sudden losses in the speculation field. ## INVESTMENT TRUST PROFITS

The ability to make money, consistently, is the test we apply to a business when determining the investment value of its securities. Viewed from this angle alone, investment trusts compare favorably both as to the rate of earnings and the steady, consistent manner in which their profits are made.

The many sources from which investment trusts derive their income make them largely independent of stock market movementstheir earnings being based upon long-time trends and the steady enhancement of assets behind securities held in their portfolios. The stability of their earnings is a result of the wide diversification of their invested capital

GEORGETOWN'S STRONGEST TEAM TO OPPOSE N. Y. U.

OF CARNEGIE ERRED

EW YORK, Oct. 28.—Professing to know much about the operations of the newspaper business in the United States, the learned professors of the Carnegie Foundation made one great practical error which no prize fight promoter, no fighter's manager, college press agent or secretary to a base ball firm of more than thirty days' experience would have committed.

They released their report on intercollegiate football for publication just two days before the first major football games of the season, either forgetting that within 48 hours they would be trying to shout against a great volume of excited matter about the teams in all sections of the country or assuming that the things which they had to say would silence all interest in the game, itself and thus, in either case, disqualifying themselves as well-informed critics of the press or public psychology. Consequently, their findings have received no more than a hasty "quite so" or an impatient "pooh-pooh" and by now are almost out of mind.

Public Has Laughed Off

genuinely newsy, but of secondary value compared to the events and personalities of the week-end, will have been forgotten or the public conscience will have adjusted itself to them and the Carnegle report never will come alive again.

Thirty days hence, even the most scandalous details will have become a jest on the lips of a public that has quickly laughed off many a scandal of graver importance, and the Carnegle professors will find themselves denied the clamor which was the only artistic reward that the situation held out to them in the beginning. A comedian would say that the football teams topped their gag.

Tex Rickard knew enough to yield the football season to football and never ran an important prize fight counter to this interest and all the thousands of ladies and gentlemen engaged in the difficult business of exploiting people, rackets, movements and the like, know, as if by instinct, that Monday morning is the time to let go their releases.

Mr. Barrow, of course, knew for some weeks that Mr. Shawkey would be appointed, but he also realized that if the news had been announced during the world series it would have commanded no more than a small box head among the notes and knick-knacks on the lefthand page of the sport section. So he waited, finally, on an otherwise dull day, calling a solumn meeting of the baseball reporters at the Yankee offices downtown, at which, amid a grave hush, he uttered the news.

(A.P.).—Mickey Walker's fistic
crown will be placed on the boxing mart of the world at Wrigley Field tomorrow night when Ace Hudkins makes his second bid for the middleweight title against the toy buildog of Rumson, N. J.

Realizing that defeat probably will mark the exit of the vanquished from the 168-pound division, both scrappers will climb into the ring in superb condition as the result of a month of conditioning.

The champion broke training camp today at Soper ranch, in the Ventury Hills. The contender packed up went through three light rounds at Walker, generally considered to be a bit heavy for the middleweight class, was reported by his manager, Jack "Doc" Kearns, to tip the beam at 162 pounds. The Nebraska wildcat weighed 187 before his final workout.

While the general opinion, based on 10-8 betting odds, placed the chamoutcome of the ten-round battle was which has come over the pair since last summer,

Walker contends that on that fight he had a decided advantage over Hudkins, who was making his first stab at the middleweight division. The former Lincoln (Nebraska) newsboy insists that he was never so surprised in his life when the battle was awarded Mickey.

Since that time the fast-stepping, two-fisted battler from the Cornhusker State has improved his style, judging from the fight with Armand Emanuel, when he met the light heavyweight's stabbing left to outbox the San Francisco barrister. He has also added several pounds in weight.

British Golf Title Again

New York, Oct. 28 (A.P.) — Miss Gleina Collett, America's greatest woman golfer, is going to Europe again next year to try for the British championship. This was revealed here teday by the four-time national title holder.

In announcing her decision to make another trip in quest of the coveted championship now held by Miss Joyce Wethered, Miss Collett said that a number of America's ranking women players have discuissed the matter of joining forces abroad to compete in the British championship and to play the courses of England, Germany, Scotland and France. This indicates that 1930 may see the greatest invasion of Europe
yet made by American women golfers.

There is the possibility that if a 28.—Edward B. McLean's Crossbones, a full brother to Neddle, showed a smart performance at Laurel this afternoon when he won the program's feature race, the Somerset Purse. This was a dash of 6 furlongs and it brought together one of the smartest fields of 2-year-olds that have gone to the post in Maryland this fall. There were ten starters and Crossbones was one of the outsiders. E Ambrose had the mount and he put up one of those patient, cool rides he so often displays.

In the early running Ambrose was content to let Crossbones get settled on his stride and he trailed the lead-

Crossbones responded in a manner that made it evident that he would be a keer factor at the end. Plous. a keen factor for five furlongs, tailed off and was eased up at the end. Yarn broke very slowly and I had no chance from where he got off. The fractional time of the race was 0.23; 0.46 4-5; 1.12 1-5.

Today's card in the main was made up of a series of claiming races in which ordinary fields went to the post. Workman rode three winners when he landed Festic and Candy Pig is front of the fields in the third and fourth races, and won the seventh with Cogwheel. Gunman, a Man o' War colt, that carried, the Glen Riddle colors in the first race, was claimed by E. C. Chatteur for $4,000.

Mary Eloise Just Lasts

Mary Eloise Just Lasts To Beat Zahn.

Mary Eloise, from the E. K. Bryson Stable, was first of the afternoon's winners. She was one of the twelve-that went to the post in this race, thich called for a dash of 6 furlongs con called for a dash of a furiongs maiden 2-year-olds under claim-conditions. There was a lot of tention. In the early stages, St. Ican, Skip Weidel, Naylor and Ann raced almost aligned. Skip Weidel a slight margin, but rounding far furn Field sent St. Tuscan to front.

Eloise came from behind and moving up with a rush, assumed an easy had after passing the furlong pole, but in the last sixteenth she weakened and Serio was forced to drive to get her to last long enough to stall off the Rancocas colt. Zahn, which finished with a great burst of speed, and was beaten a head. St. Tuscan was a tiring third, beaten three lengths for the place, and then followed Gunman, another head away. wayfair then went to the front.

In the meantime Sangamo was rading along off the leaders and W. Finth and him under stout restraint.

After taking the twelfth jump Sangamo moved up aboutly and before they reached the next obstacle he had taken the lead from Wayfair and appeared to be only galloping. All went well to the last jump, when Sangamo had a bobble and Hunt fell off. This left Wayfair with things pretty much his own way and he galloped the remainder of the thip and won under restraint. Candy Pig Gallops
Home in Fourth.

A dozen platers went to the post in the fourth race and the winner turned up in H. T Archibald's Candy Pig. They were sent away to a splendid break and Tetra Glass was first to show. Candy Pig and Remedy raced heads apart in the run down the back stretch. Rounding the far turn Remedy dropped back and Candy Pig, shaking off Tetra Glass, began drawing away. Entering the home stretch, Workman opened up a lead of three lengths on Tetra Glass and for the balance of the trip Candy Pig had things all his own way. At the end he had a margin of four lengths to splare over the Tartar who came from behind in the stretch run to finish strong. Moseow, after a very slow beginning, clossed a lot of ground and was up in the closing stride to beat Lassa a head for third place. Tetra Glass, who was making his first start since the hadly and was eased up at the end.

Festic a 1 to 2 favorite in the third race, gave his backers some anxious moments in the early stages. Workman, who had the mount, did not hurry his mount any and Festic droped back to last place. He was still a trailer when they straightened at the back stretch and a long way back of the leaders. Supawana, who was out in front making the pace, had a two-length lead and going to the half-mile pole he increased his advantage to four lengths.

Workman found an opening next the inside rail and Festic moved up fast. Rounding the far turn. Festic was taken off the rail and took the outside route. He was still running on his own courage and gaining at every atride. Coming into the home stretch Festic caught and passed Supawana and for the rest of the journey it was little better, than a gallop for the favorite. At the finish he had a pick's advantage over Supawana and the place.

Claiming Box Filled As 15 Make Bids for Bask at Empire Track

ONKERS, N. Y.. Oct. 28 (N. Y.W.N.S.). — Andy Schuttinger served up a racing double for cames Butter at the Empire City track today, with Bask and Questionnaire. Both were at odds-on: the former at the short price of 2 to 5.

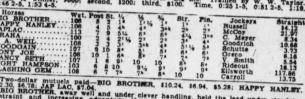

Bask, a son o' Vulcain—Beach Star, was entered to be sold or 3.000 in the fifth race, and he looked such a bargain at that price even with a tendency to bleed that owners and trainers fairly stormed the office in an effort to get him at that figure.

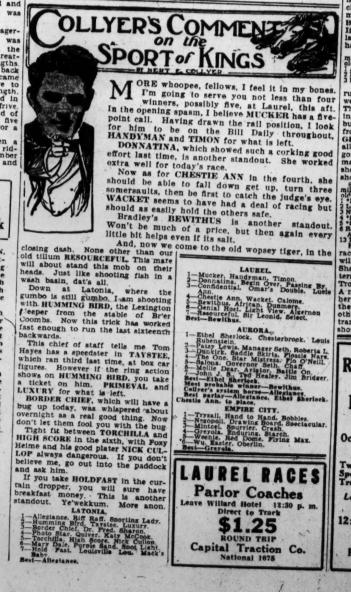

All records were broken when fitteen claims were dropped in the box for the horse generall considered to be worth $5.000 at least. The claiming box bulged with $45.000 in cash and when-it was opened in the presence of the stewards excitement ran high as the many bargain hunters crowded in the little room hoping for luck in the draw.

The leather bottle was well shaken and a little white ball taken out. It pointed to A. G. Robertson, trainer of Mabla. A moment before he crowded in saying: "I'm going to get my $3.000 back, I never win on a draw." He was wrong—coming out with the horse.

Bask, under Mack Garner's careful landling, made all the running and, after shaking off Russet, came away to win handliy from Trentonian.

DURHAM, Oct. 28.—The Blue Devils returned home today and are ready to carry on through their difficult schedule. No additional injuries were added to the hospital list in the game with Villanovs.

Even though defeated Saturday, the reserves covered themselves with glory. The work of Fred Taylor in the line was fine. McKeithan and Grant did well at ends. Matthews, Ruyh and Bryan served well at tackle. Duke has two big jobs immediately ahead. The Blue Devils are not pointing to Boston College, to be met next Saturday in Boston, but to Louisiana State University, appearing in the new stadium a week from Saturday.

The Louisiana game is Duke's football debut in the Southern Conference and it means much to the Blue Devils how they fare that afternoon. The Southwesterns have shown a great offensive in games played to date. They have averaged nearly 50 points a game so far.

The Blue Devils play only three Southern Conference games this year—their first in the circuit. The others are with their old rivals. North Carolina.

Duke was admitted to the conference last winter and did noble work in four sports. The Blue Devils were first in baseball without a defeat; second in basket ball and boxing and tied for first in wrestling.
